

LIFE OF BOO

White Dogs Can't Jump

Written by Nora & Rodney Jones

Life of Boo

White Dogs Can't Jump

First published in Australia in 2013 by Kidswrite Publishing

For animal lovers of all ages

Written by Nora and Rodney Jones

Designed by Nora Jones

Printed in Australia

We would like to acknowledge the following:

Arbuckle's Café and Restaurant Mudgee

Church Street Veterinary Hospital Mudgee

Dog Wash Mudgee

Pawsome Pet Food

Dog Rescue Newcastle

Mid-Western Regional Council

for their work in the care and rescue of dogs and cats and for their contribution to this story.

“Hey, move over! I’m getting squished, here.

Oh, hi there! Let me introduce myself. My name is Boo. You know, like a ghost, but I am not the least bit scary.

Let me tell you where it all began...

My sisters, brothers and I started our lives (all five of us) in a cold, dark, cramped and smelly place.

We weren’t given much to eat, so every day, we had to scramble for the little food that was given to us.

We had a really tough time in that smelly box. That's because we were hungry – we were so hungry, we would fight and bite each other over the scraps of rubbish we were fed. I was in my fair share of those bite fights.

We all had little black bugs all over our bodies and we were itchy.
Oh so Itchy!

We also had lots of worms wriggling around in our bellies and we were scared. Oh so scared!